Finally about a year ago I went to the local sleep clinic. Their conclusion was I was a borderline candidate for the positive air pressure masks buy naltrexone hydrochloride in Australia wears at naltrexone hydrochloride Australia buy in to cure the condition. My wife said NO to that idea, as the noise from the machine would be as bad as my snoring. About a year after my visit to the sleep clinic I saw an ad on the internet by accident. It talked about a devise called a Snore Guard. I called the doctor at the sleep clinic and asked why he never mentioned this possible solution last year. He said he didnt bring it up because most dental insurance plans dont pay for it.

It was apparent form his answer that he was purely profit motivated. He would only profit if I purchased the noisy air pressure devise and was not about to talk about something that he wouldnt profit from.
